

I feel that there is far too much violence, blood, swearing, and immorality. There needs to be more shows like 7th heaven and Touched by an angel, and Little house on the prairie. These shows emphasize caring family relationships and talking thru problems and being married before becoming sexually active. I can see where children and teens get there role models from...the hours they spend in front of the TV. Please help TV shows to turn around and become something the whole family can sit down together and watch.
